Project Brief

After several failed Architects attempts for “a bit of a fix-up at the rear and perhaps another toilet and bathroom” and on recommendation of their next door neighbour, a Cape Cod designer was called out to transform a “daggie” deceased estate into a thing of joy for this family of four.

The Result

The final renovation provides the client with the amount of space they wanted and a house that functions the way a home should. A backyard that was barely accesible has been utilised, and the clients are more than enamored with the extras including an ensuite, walk in robes and a parents’ retreat in a design that put the sleeping upstairs and the living downstairs to make an unworkable space workable.

Client Comments

‘Our Supervisor was driven by quality and absolutely prides himself in turning out a first class product, not only was he on the phone straight away if there were any problems, but I felt confident I could ring him as much as necessary.’
