Project Brief

The clients brief was pretty straight forward: Take an untouched 1920's Californian bungalow that was dark, enclosed and single storey and transform it into a large two storey, light-filled modern family home with four-bedrooms plus a study, retaining the original features and style of the house and creating a space where they could raise their family for the next 20+ years.

The Result

This incredible home boasts a modern design while keeping the integrity of its 1920's heritage. Quality inclusions and consistent design considerations have all worked together to create an architecturally stunning result that is visually pleasing and has an impressive street presence. When approaching the house from the street, it doesn't look like a renovation. The clients couldn't be happier with the final outcome, both inside and out. They have the perfect home to suit their lifestyle and family as they grow.

Client Comments

'We are extremely happy with the final result; it has exceeded all our expectations. Cape Cod were able to design a home that worked in with the way in which we like to live. The outcome is incredible and perfect for our family's lifestyle!'
