Project Brief

This Whale Beach property was part of their retirement plan. The 1960s Scandinavian style house was small, but had a cosy feel and great positioning. The clients plan was always to renovate at some point, making the house 'their own' before they moved in full-time. However, due to their growing desire for quality time with their family and challenges related to council zoning regulations, they decided that it was time to capitalise on their investment.

The Result

The final outcome of this project is absolutely spectacular, with Cape Cod delivering on every aspect of the design brief. Quality inclusions and consistent design considerations have all worked together to create an architecturally stunning result, both inside and out. They have realised their dream second home, which works perfectly with their lifestyle and provides stunning views that are truly second to none.

Client Comments

'We now have the perfect place to build our dreams and create memories; it's a real privilege to have. Cape Cod has done a great job giving us the home we wanted, while still retaining the original soul of the house. We look forward spending lots of time there and building family connections to look back on in years to come.'
