Project Brief

Brooke and Jeremy appointed Cape Cod Australia to turn their modest upper North Shore bungalow into a spacious family home. The brief included opening up the downstairs living and kitchen areas to create a more family-friendly space, providing more storage around a new stairwell, as well as a new generously sized master suite on the first floor.

The Result

The end result is the spacious family home they wished for with ample storage and natural light. Upstairs, the new first floor is now a retreat for the couple, a sanctuary away from their growing children in preparation for those all-important teen years. As a tradie, Jeremy was particular about all the finishes and says he was impressed with Cape Cod's professionalism and customer service. Jeremy used some of his industry contacts to do elements of the build, so some parts of the project were built by him, while utilising Cape Cod's team for the major work, including design and structural work.

Client Comments

The new master bedroom upstairs overlooks bushland and is Brooke's favourite spot in the house, she says. "It's our space, it's quiet, it's got a really nice outlook with lots of light," she explains.
